Christian Cornia was born in Modena (Italy) on 8 September 1975.

When he was 4 years old, looking at a comic book, he decided that he would be a comic drawer, and not an astronaut like other children.

In the years 1996-1997 he attended the School of Comics "Nuova Eloise" in Bologna, but he was a self-taught artist at least.

In 2011, along with other Italian artists founded the cultural association Dr.INK which self-produce illustration books.

He works with the international agency of illustrators Advocate Art and he is the Character designer Teacher of the Animation course of the Scuola Internazionale di Comics of Reggio Emilia. In addition he's part of the Italian community of Urban Sketchers.

He works digitally but he remains a secret lover of the pencil and he doesn't move without a sketchbook in his bag.

He has created artwork and characters for publishers, advertising, video games and role-playing games and working as a colorist for the French market with publishers like Soleil, Delcourt and Dargaud.

He worked as an inker for Marvel USA on the comics IRONMAN MARVEL ADVENTURE, ADVENTURE MARVEL THE AVENGERS and DAKEN.

He is currently one of the artists for Scooby Doo in Italy for Piemme Edizioni. and he works for the United States on several books with Warner Bros Characters, including Scooby Doo.
